Medicaid Estate Recovery Program contact and payment information updated

Medicaid Estate Recovery is the process by which states seek to recover amounts paid by Medicaid on behalf of a qualified individual. When a Medicaid recipient dies, the state of Indiana is required by federal and state law to seek recovery from their estate, funds equal to the amount used to pay for their medical services. Any funds recovered through the estate recovery process are then used to help provide for future Medicaid recipients. The Indiana Family and Social Services Administration (FSSA) Estate Recovery Program is the entity that administers Indiana Medicaid's estate recovery process.

The FSSA seeks to recover the total amount Medicaid has paid on behalf of recipients after they turn 55 years of age, and in certain other limited circumstances. To facilitate compliance, the FSSA is updating estate recovery contact and payment submission information as follows.
